

Long Beach Lesbian Groups - Where Are They?

Do you remember just a few years ago when you had to search out various Lesbian groups and get on their mailing list in order to find out where the Lesbians are? If you didn't find these groups, then you never really knew where to find new friends and new play mates to do activities with and have fun with other Lesbians.

For as long as I can remember, Lesbians have been forming groups centered around such activities as biking, hiking or just plain socializing. In the past, the only way to find out about these groups was to keep asking around until someone could tell you the details and how to get into the group.

Some groups were (and still are) selective and you could only get in by special invite by an existing member.

Other groups would gladly add you to their call list (yes, girls there was a time in the distant past when there was no email...eeek!). Once on the call list and then, later, on the email list, you were in the loop to get the dates and times and invites to the next activity event.

Ah, now the world has changed.

Now, we have Lesbian Groups online that are found mostly through either Facebook or the now, increasingly popular, Meetup.com.

I have found that in order to find a really good, vibrant and active Lesbian Facebook group, you really have to follow the leads through your friends. This is kind of like the old days where you had to find the friend first, then be invited by the friend into the group. Once in, you can visit often to find out what is happening with the group.

Facebook groups are still a bit lacking in their ability to really pull a group of Lesbians together. People don't really use the tools of Facebook groups such as emailing the group, but then, Facebook keeps changing the rules making it harder to run a group out of Facebook.

The better choice is to use an increasingly popular way to find and join Lesbian social groups online.

I particularly like groups that are public that show their calendar of activities before I have to join such as the one at Long Beach Lesbians Fun Group . Just be careful, public Lesbian groups are just that...public. Anyone can see who the members are so if you want to be more private, I suggest that you join the group called, Long Beach Lesbians - Socialize! Network! Play! . It's run by the same organizer but offers you more privacy yet has the same fun events.
